Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

- 2008-16 was a period when the mobile industry was rapidly changing and many companies were looking at this change positively. BlackBerry, on the other hand, didn't want to change their ideology.
- For instance, the difference between two BlackBerry models was almost negligible, especially for the elites, who were only bothered by their privacy. Hence, no new model was an actual celebration for them. As such, enhancing the customer base become difficult after a certain point.
- To elaborate this further, let us look at two main areas where the innovation lacked miserably.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

Lack Of Innovation To Expand The Customer Base

- A prime reason for following this ideology was a fixed market share. Blackberry had a monopoly over the IT sector of various corporate houses.
- Hence, it did not realize the need to cater to the masses with upgrades.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

Blackberry Tablet

- The blackberry tablet was created to compete against Ipad and was a massive fail. Not only was the UI not intuitive but it also required a BlackBerry phone to connect to the net.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

Latecomer With Touchscreen

- Blackberry came with the touchscreen phone in 2008, one year after it was already launched by Apple.
- The phone was named Storm but didn't manage to live up to its own name and was a major buzz eater for the touchscreen lovers.
- It came with no wi-fi support and had a number of software issues. Opening any application only meant hitting on the screen multiple times, only to get on the user's last nerve.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

Blackberry Torch

- The Blackberry torch almost killed all the user interest it has created since its first phone.
- The phone's weighed around 161g (as heavy as a stone). It further came with both touch and type, whereby the touch was a disaster, to say the least, and the keyboard only confused the user further.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

1 Aversion To Innovation

Lack Of Innovation To Expand Product Segment

- Have you ever imagined what if Samsung phones are suddenly out of trend and their technology outdated? What will be the consequences? Will Samsung collapse? No, not.
- This is because Samsung has invested in a variety of products to hold a strong foot in different segments of the market. On the contrary, Blackberry and its R&D was solely committed to making phones for a selected customer base.
- The launch of BBM music as a competitor to iTunes only reduced the company's goodwill. The application came with a variety of restrictions like only users couldn't store beyond 50 songs. Further, both parties wanting to share music need to be having a BB phone along with a subscription.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

2 Using A Very Restricted OS

Too Dull An OS For The Hyperactive User Market

- The Operating System of Blackberry was very much restricted where users are allowed to change very few settings or appearance of their phone. Initially, this worked for the company, but with the onset of games and productivity apps which attracted a major buzz, the BBOS just appeared obsolete.
- Blackberry's competitors came with a solution to this drawback and introduced a more fluid and smooth Operating System.
- Today, Android smartphones and iPhones have millions of applications, themes, and games in their play store or app store. But Blackberry's application store has very few countable applications. Most of them are not even properly optimized for Blackberry.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

2 Using A Very Restricted OS

Lack Of Support From Prime Developers

- Further, there was a growing resistance among developers to come out and support Blackberry products. This started when big developers like Facebook and WhAtsapp with billions of users started rolling back their support, not only for BB10 but for all the recent versions.
- Blackberry's OS was considered as a highly secure system, especially for corporations. Hence, Blackberry did not consider it important enough to resort to any other option that might lose them their customers.
- Further, services like Google hangouts and cloud worked very poorly on Blackberry because they were not designed for it.
- In fact, in 2015, when the company finally launched a new phone with Google's operating system, customers found it hard to rely on.

3 Poor Build Quality

- Blackberry phones were always good in all aspects. But in 2012, there were a large number of cases where users started reporting their device being broken. According to a survey, it was found that the trackballs of most of the Blackberry phones got broken in that year. Users also reported keyboard issues in the same year.
- Further, even after adding a number of applications, the fact that the screen was too small to navigate continued to be a major problem.
- With the launch of touch screens, the idea of dialling on QWERTY sounded too painful to the fingers. This need arose because people's perception of a smartphone changed drastically since 2012. They preferred a laptop in their pockets with equal fun as reliability and functionality.

Reasons of Decline of BlackBerry

4 No Effective And Timely Upgrades

No Effective And Timely Upgrades

Upgrading the software means to introduce some new features into existing mobile phones. However, Blackberry never considered it as an option to grow. Where competitors were busy providing effective and timely upgrades to their users, Blackberry just upgraded its security patch to make the device more secure.

BBM Exclusivity

BBM came with a number of features to attract the younger generation and created a major buzz among the highly social generation. However, they were not ready to allow any other competitor to use this application to attract customers. This might have made BBM exclusive but in the longer run, WhatsApp outpaced BBM by attracting users from all walks of mobile products.

SWOT analysis of BlackBerry

• Strengths

- Has developed an established brand
- Highly secure phones
- Strong focus on narrow customer segment
- Blackberry brand loyalty amongst niche market of corporate/business customers
- Expanding global consumer base
- Has a loyal market share.

• Weaknesses

- Inability to market the brand
- BlackBerry OS
- Poor presence in the tablet market
- Losing brand loyalty amongst non-corporate customers
- Market perceptions of devices being for “professionals”
- R&D limited on innovation capabilities

SWOT analysis of BlackBerry

• Opportunities

- Z10is launching with “hub” feature- unique to BlackBerry
- Growth of tablet and smart phone markets
- Obtaining patents through acquisitions
- Increasing Apps market (over 100,000 apps goal)
- Expanding marketing of Niche Business-class consumers (small/ large businesses)

• Threats

- Rapid technological change
- Saturated smart phone markets in developed countries
- Large carrier refusing to sell Z10 model.

Recommendations of BlackBerry Awakening

- Operating android based os.
- Involve innovative AI based mobile smartphones version.
- Set up new features of BBM that can hit WhatsApp and gain new generations attention to the classic updated BBM.
- Break BBM Restrictions and release in Google play & Apple Store.
